Hello,

It is a pleasure and an honor to serve as Honorary Chair of the fourth annual Nevada State Poetry Out Loud competition.

Like the students competing today, I am deeply committed to the arts, and have grown as a person through my involvement with the arts. Nothing stirs the soul more than poetry, and I am excited to hear the selections that will be presented today.

I want to extend my congratulations to all of the organizations that have made this event possible: The Nevada Arts Council, the Nevada Department of Education and the Nevada Alliance for Arts Education. I believe the arts are an important part of education, and I applaud the work you are doing. Without these organizations, many of Nevada’s youth would have no exposure to the arts and the self-esteem building opportunities that participation in the arts offer. Research tells us that when youth are provided with alternative activities, they can make good decisions and stay away from drugs. The Miss America and Miss Nevada Scholarship Organizations have long encouraged artistic development of America’s youth, especially in young women, which makes my position as Honorary Chair especially meaningful to me.

Congratulations as well to the families, communities, schools and teachers who have obviously succeeded at instilling in these young people an appreciation for the arts, which inspire all of us to achieve our highest potential.

I wish you all the best today, and in all your life’s journeys.

Sincerely,

Julianna Erdesz

What is Poetry Out Loud?

The Poetry Out Loud National Recitation Contest, created by the National Endowment for the Arts and The Poetry Foundation seeks to foster the next generation of literary readers by capitalizing on the latest trends in poetry - recitation and performance. The program builds on the resurgence of poetry as an oral art form, as seen in the slam poetry movement and the immense popularity of rap music among youth. Poetry Out Loud invites the dynamic aspects of slam poetry, spoken word, and theater into English, theater, humanities and social studies classrooms. Through Poetry Out Loud, students can master public speaking skills, build self-confidence, and learn about their literary heritage.

This year, across the nation, thousands of high school students will participate in Poetry Out Loud. State finalists advance to the National Finals where $50,000 in scholarships and school prizes will be awarded. Finalists will attend a welcome banquet at the J.W. Marriott Hotel on Sunday, April 27, with the National Semifinals to be held on April 28 and the Finals on April 29 on the George Washington University Campus. Students will also have an opportunity to meet their members of Congress at a special luncheon in their honor in the Dirksen Senate Office Building.

For Nevada's Poetry Out Loud Program, the Nevada Arts Council, the Nevada Alliance for Arts Education and the Nevada Department of Education invite all high schools across the state to participate – public, charter and private. In our first year (2006), ten of Nevada's school districts participated. This year, 14 of the 16 school districts in Nevada with a high school participated - engaging 34 schools, 53 teachers and more than 1,200 students, family members, friends and coaches. The Nevada State Finals champion is awarded $1,000 and his/her school receives $2,000 to support literary arts programs and the purchase of poetry books. First and second runners-up each receive $500; their schools receive $1,000 each to support literary arts programs and the purchase of poetry books.

Congratulations to all of today’s competitors!
