

I Want to Tell You That

Jordan Clarke

All over Nevada
I am surrounded
By prickly plants that fill the sands,
Joshua trees,
But they never really meant much to me
Until my brother passed away
And my days became dismay
Although they have the same name
My brother is gone and they remain
Now planted in my yard
In constant sight
They no longer mean nothing. They bring me life.

-Jordan Clarke