

Visitors

Let Me Tell You about the Visitors

Somedays I'll spot a pretty band grazing on the range
And I'll just pull up a rock and sit
And pass the time taking pictures from the ground
And wait for them

It's usually a yearling first. They're like middle school kids,
Curious and not nearly scared enough
And if there's a baby it will want to tag along
If mom is busy eating

I've made a lot of friends this way
On windy afternoons on the range
And sometimes when we meet again
They stop by and say hello in that sweet way horses have.
