

To my cousin

Kylan Lagreca

You always came to visit but now you're here to stay
Your sister and your parents
They miss you everyday

I've lived here my whole life
Some call me battle born
You, you're just a brand new piece of baby corn

Your eyes glued to the skies above
You watch and marvel at the large puffy clouds
You envy the flight of any turtle dove

Your view was the ocean
Now it's a range of glorious mountains
And of course the flickering lights of the city in motion

It will get easier for you as time passes by Your new home is here to take you in as its own
You are as relevant to Nevada as the clouds in the sky
As well as the smell of the many sagebrush bushes that populate the mountains up high

Just step outside
Open your door
Don't be shy, there's lots to explore

From distant cousin to neighbor
Welcome to this enchanting desert land
Please let me do you a favor
Let me help you understand
This silver state will take you by the hand
